ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME?

Now that the Hockey season has been closed for several weeks and the Curling risk long since been shut, the above should be replacing them soon.

Curling Association Holds Annual Meeting

Last evening the local Curling Association held its annual meeting, when about twenty curlers met in the curling club chambers. The object of the meeting was to discuss finances, officer proposition and to elect officers for the following season. The curlers consists in getting a really made suit of clothes and a read-made dinner in a tin or paper box. The man who reads the country newspaper pumps, lamps, stoves, automobiles, clothing, dresses, books, paints, farm implements, furniture, carpets, etc. In this room are two hundred fifty men and individuals. Some of them present a dozen manufacturing enterprises and more. There isn't a man here who has anything to sell that he cannot sell to the reader of a country newspaper. And every man here could more profitably advertise in a country newspaper in proportion to its circulation than in any other publication on the earth. I emphasize the value of a country newspaper as an advertising medium for it has that value.

The officers elected are as follows:
Patrons, Wm. Moffatt, M.P.P.
Inspector Tucker
Major Holmes
Chaplain, Rev. Wm. McNeil
President, R. E. Moffatt.
First Vice-Pres., Geo. Curney.
Second Vice-Pres., J. T. Klugley.
Sec.-Treas., F. Murray.
Executive, N. Holmes
Geo. Ringrose
C. J. Baran
J. B. Rose
O. L. Reinecke.

Rex Theatre Again Changes Hands

On April the first morning picture business again changed hands from L. O. Shortreed to W. W. Rogers. This is the third change of this business has had since January 1914, which is a little over a year. Mr. Rogers has already announced to the public that he will do his best to secure as good pictures (if not better than has already been shown here). He fully intends to please the public and is doing so by continuing the "Master Key," which is running every Monday and Tuesday. Watch for further advertisement for new features and serials at the Rex.

Sells Ranch and Goes to Front

Cyril D. Hardwick, probably one of the most popular and best known cowboy ranchers of Southern Alberta, has just sold his ranch and cattle at Trout Creek, and left for the old country to accept a commission in a mounted regiment there. Cyril, as the old-timers know him better by his nickname "Rim," served in the South African war with distinction and gained both medals. Since the present war broke out he has been trying to sell his outfit in order to rejoin his old regiment. He has at last succeeded, though at a great sacrifice to himself from a financial point of view, but coming of good old English fighting stock he could not resist the call to arms and left on Sunday night for the old land.

He had been connected with the ranching business in Southern Alberta for the past seventeen years, and was a good rider and rider, even amongst the best. He rode in the Stampede, at Calgary, two years ago and many an old cowboy will miss the smiling face and ready help of "Rim" in the spring roundup. "May good luck attend you Rim" and bring you safely back" is the heartfelt wish of all old cowboys.

GALE-BENSON

On Monday morning last at eleven o'clock, Edwin Albert Gale and Miss Ila Marie Benson, both of this vicinity, were united in marriage by Rev. D. Andersen, of Barons. They have the heartiest congratulations of their friends.

"The Master Key" at the Rex

The seventh episode of "The Master Key," which will be shown on Monday and Tuesday at the Rex Theatre, continues to hold the interest of the public to a marked degree. Indeed, it is not saying too much when it is asserted that it is without a doubt the most fascinating serial ever filmed. At the end of the sixth episode it will be remembered that Dore had just rescued Ruth from the hands of Wilkerson's emissaries. After the rescue Dore takes Ruth back to the hotel, and after dressing in borrowed clothes, Ruth joins Dore and they go off on a shopping expedition. Ruth still suffers from the effects of the rough treatment accorded, so she decides to take in one of the sight-seeing trips. Much beautiful scenery is shown in this installment, the Cliff House, Japanese tea rooms and a distant view of the Panama expansion grounds and buildings will be shown.

AMUNDSEN-SOLBY

Easter Monday afternoon the Methodist church was the scene of most beautiful wedding, when Miss Julia C. Solby and Adolph Amundsen were united in the Holy bonds of matrimony by the Rev. J. M. Harrison. The bride, who were a lovely gown of white embroidered, was given away by her father, J. Solby, as Mr. Amundsen's wedding march was being played by Miss Harrison. The bride's sister, Miss Isabel, dressed in a very becoming gown, was bridesmaid, while Claude, the groom's brother acted as best man. The flower girls were the Misses Grace Amundsen and Florence Atkinson, both being but five years of age, and each carried a basket of very pretty nosegays.

The church was filled to the doors, with friends of the young couple, and was most artistically decorated with flowers and bunting. After the ceremony was performed, the young couple, with a very special friends partook of a very delectable breakfast at the bride's home. Mr. and Mrs. Amundsen then motored to Calgary where they will spend their honeymoon.

CARD OF THANKS

I take this opportunity in thanking the Theatre goers for their kind patronage the short time I was manager of the Rex Theatre.

Dr. A. D. MacRae Speaks At Patriotic Concert

By way of stirring up a little enthusiasm the Patriotic Society officials held a public meeting at a Monday at which Dr. A. D. MacRae, of Western Canada College, Calgary, was the speaker. Dr. MacRae has been educated in Canada, England, Scotland and Germany and is a gentleman of wide information and reading. His address was one of the best ever heard in Clareholm on Patriotic subjects. Dr. MacRae believes in putting the truth straight without any clouding and said several things which were revelations to many. He stated that the Germans are all behind the Kaiser in this war and that the belief that the Kaiser led his subjects by the nose, quite wrong. He also stated that Germany if victorious would not be the British colonies, such as Canada and not overpowered Britain. As to the American the German had told him only second to the Englishman and if Britain was beaten the United States would be attended to next. He spoke of the intense patriotism of the German and how their shout of "Deutschland ueber alles" was sincere and came right from the heart of every true German all of whom had been educated to believe that the Germans were destined and entitled, owing to their thorough systems and through education to rule the world. He here spoke of the magnificent bravery of the British troops who in the retreat from Mons and in the fighting around Ypres in November, had brushed off odds of eight and ten to one in numbers. He intimated his belief that the war would be lengthy and that the Germans were not liable to quit till they were forced to.

There were about ninety present. The national chorus "O Canada" and Rule Britannia were sung by a choir who had been practicing. They also gave a chorus under the direction of Miss Doyle. Wm. G. Moffatt acted as conductor and accompanist while Miss Strang sang in a very pleasing manner. The officials of the Patriotic Society were a little disappointed at the small attendance though, about thirty dollars was received for tickets, so that the society will be in a fair way to go to the patriotic funds.

GIRL WANTED

Experienced general housemaid wanted at once. Phone 40 or apply Mrs. W. T. Cochran, Clareholm.

A Chant of Love For England

A song of hate is a song of Hell; Sane there be that sing it well. Let them sing it loud and long. We lift our hearts in a loftier song. We lift our hearts to Heaven above, Singing the glory of her we love—England!
Glory of thoughtland glory of deed, Glory of hamletland and Ruymeland; Glory of ships that sought for goals, Glory of swords and glory of souls! Glory of songs mounting to birds, Glory immortal of magical words; Glory of Milton, glory of Nelson. Tragic glory of Gordon and Scott: Glory of Sherbrooke glory of Sidney. Glory transcendent that perishes not— Here is the story, here be the glory, England!
Shatter her beautiful breast ye may; The spirit of England none can slay! Dash the bomb on the dome of Paul's, Deem ye the fame of the Admiral false? Pry the stone from the chancel floor, Deem ye that Shakespeare shall fall no more!
Where is the giant shot that kills Wordworth walking the old green hill? Trample the red rose on the ground— Knees is beauty while earth spins round!
Bind her, gird her, burn her with fire, Cut her sales into the sea! She shall escape, she shall aspire, She shall arise to make men free! She shall arise in a sacred song, Lifting the lives that are with her; Spirit superior, splendor entire, England!
—Helen Gray Cook, in the Atlantic.

Between ten and eleven thousand Alberta men have enlisted since the beginning of the war for the overseas service. It is quite likely that before the summer is over there will be over thousands called for and response made. Which will mean that the province is numerically poorer to the extent of the soldier's total. Many of these men came from the cities, but that is no indication that they were all city men. It is a habit of the west that men from the farms gravitate to the cities during the winter months and very many of these enlisted men are of the class to which the farmers look during seedling and harvest times for necessary assistance.

All of which leads to the question of adequate farm help for the 1915 sowing and harvesting—a question which should already be agitating the mind of the farmer who is alive on the job.

At the moment there is a surplus of unskilled labor in the province. If the farmer could use the hired man now he would be able to get him very cheaply. The Farmers' Advocate advises that the farm help sufficient for harvest purposes should be hired at seedling time for the season, in order to make certain that it will be there when most needed and that by the time harvest comes to greet men who have gained sufficient experience to make them really useful. It is good advice if the farmers can finance such a labor project. Having in view the certainty of high prices all kinds of grain and stock need full. It should be possible for them to see their way to do this.

Certain it is that without adequate help during harvest time much of the possible profit of the season will be lost, and as the big crop idea for 1915 is as necessary from a patriotic as from a profit viewpoint, no stone should be left unturned to make it a certainty.

Don't wait to wait the fly. Swat his breeding ground. The time is now here when every worthy citizen should roll up his sleeves and attack the rubbish pile. Half a day spent now in cleaning up is worth several days later on chasing around the house after blow flies, and incidentally mashing your wife's best china.

The fine weather of Easter Sunday once brought the folks out. If Henry Ford could only see the roads in Claresholm that people sit in make of cars on, he would probably make cars narrower so they could get all wheels into the trenches. (Please do not take the wrong meaning from this advice as no sign on the Ford is meant.)

MR. ADVERTISER!

STOP! LISTEN! Does it matter to you how much of a Circulation a paper has, whether it has 800 or 800,000 names on its list, if only a few, if any at all receive the paper? And then consider too, whether when they do receive it, if it is always from three days to a week late or out on time. Great Britain Can Finance War for the Next Five Years

ACCUMULATION OF GOLD LARGEST IN HISTORY

Mr. Lloyd George Explains how the Allied Powers have made Arrangements to help one Another in the most Expensive War that has ever been Waged

In a statement explanatory of the arrangements made at the conference between the finance ministers of France and Russia, and himself in Paris the first of June, Mr. Lloyd George told the house of commons that the expenditure of the allies on the war would be two billion pounds sterling ($10,000,000,000) during the current year, of which Great Britain was spending more money than was any other ally.

The present war, Mr. Lloyd George said, was the most expensive in material, men and money, that had ever been waged.

Great Britain, the chancellor of the exchequer told the house of commons, could finance the war for five years out of the proceeds of her investments abroad. "I am not aware," he said, "of any other country being able to do so for about two or three years with something to spare."

He said, also, that although prodigiously rich in natural resources, was in a position to do so.

abroad, and the same thing had applied to France.

"I am not sure we realize the strain upon this gallant country," the chancellor said, "the consequence of which is that she has a larger proportion of her men in the field and the enemy in occupation of the richest part of her territory. Nevertheless, the confidence of the French ally and the ally of the allied powers is not to be overestimated."

Each ally must bring its resources into the common stock. Mr. Lloyd George said, "I am not aware of any other country being able to do so for about two or three years with something to spare."

He said, also, that although prodigiously rich in natural resources, was in a position to do so.

The blockade was designed to shut Great Britain off entirely from the continent of Europe. It prohibited all commerce and correspondence from the continent of Europe.

No ship from Britain or its colonies was permitted to enter any port and any ship seeking to evade the regulations by false declarations was seized.

Three months later England, in return for trading ports to port, within France or any other country, was excluded, to be under the same restrictions as if it were strictly blockaded.

MEN WHO KNOW ENDORSE THE IDEA

What Four Prominent Canadian Premier Say of "Made-in-Canada"

Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce: "I have noted with great interest the campaign being so capably conducted in favor of the 'Made-in-Canada' idea. I am viewing the matter, of course, entirely from the point of view of unemployment, and cannot rid myself of the conviction that one of the best remedies possible is that we who buy in Canada—and all of us buy more or less—shall make it a point wherever possible, to purchase for our needs what has been made by Canadian hands and of Canadian material. In this way we would considerably assist in the quick reduction of unemployment and the quick reviving of production and trade."

Hon. Walter Scott, Premier of Saskatchewan: "If all Canadians learned to consciously prefer the manufactures of their own country, as they do unconsciously prefer its natural products, there would be a splendid two-fold result—the sum of our national property would be increased, and, more important still, the sum of our pride and confidence in Canada would be increased also."

Hon. G. H. Murray, Premier of Nova Scotia: "The 'Made-in-Canada' campaign has my heartiest sympathy. I am sure it will meet with a generous response from all Canadians. The movement aims at the development not only of a practical patriotism but also of a 'fin' spirit of mutual helpfulness among our people."

Sir Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia: "I am very glad to say anything that I can in support of the most commendable idea contained in your programme. One of the effects of this war has been to arouse the people of Canada to the necessity of a greater production in various lines of industry, and I know of nothing which will tend to promote this more than the campaign you are now engaged in."

STORY OF A STORE

Tom Tasker had a corner store. He got it from his father who built up his trade from the farmers that spent their money for things made in Canada. Tasker's store grew into a little town of cement sidewalks and electric lights. Tom's business developed and he got an automobile, a $10,000 house, and a big new store with plate glass, patent show-cases and a motorcar.

The blacksmith shop grew into a carriage factory; the local cabinet-maker became a furniture manufacturer.

A few years ago when a wide-awake man discovered that the country around Taskerville had the very best kind of soil and climate for raising tomatoes, cucumbers, field peas, corn and small fruits, and reckoned it a good stroke of business to start a canning factory in Taskerville, the farmers fetched their truck to the factory which became as good a purveyor of canned goods as any in Canada. Its products were found in the dining camps and the kitchens of the wealthy that went to grand opera. But whenever any farmer went to the store of Tom Tasker, built up from their farms in two generations, they never could find a blessed tin of the Taskerville factory's goods on his shelves. When they asked him why he wouldn't encourage home industry and stock up with home goods, he said he reckoned he knew his own business.

Wherefore the farm folk round about Taskerville boycotted the Tasker store, and Tom Tasker made an assignment. Which, to most sensible folks, way of thinking was the only way to prove to the Tasker intellect that you can't expect both boots to fit the same foot.

This is a homely illustration and localized to Taskerville; but if it doesn't prove that it's the business of the retailer in Canada to keep on his toes the goods made in Canada by Canadian workmen at a time when Canada is making the fight of her life to stay industrially efficient—then there must be something wrong with the argument. Think it over.
